

METHODIST SCHOOL STUDENT PROFILE

UPRIGHT

We are honest, sensible and respectful toward ourselves and others, based on Christian values and principles. We are responsible for our behavior and its consequences.

SENSIBLE RESEARCHERS

We analyze our surroundings in detail with positive and assertive attitude showing critical, analytical, and creative spirit based on meaningful previous experiences, anticipating and finding solutions to possible conflict situations.

GOOD COMMUNICATORS

We express our ideas efficiently and assertively with trust and creativity, listening to others and assuming responsibility for our ideas through the right approach and knowledge of the topic, connecting the concepts to our surrounding.

CREATIVE

We encourage the ability to see the world from different perspectives to build criteria generating ideas and solutions to favor our own development and that of others.

TECHNOLOGICALLY INTELLIGENT

We develop the ability to use the technological means and resources effectively for academic, cultural, social, and emotional learning in the basic stages of training as well as in continuous updating.

AUTONOMOUS

We encourage our decision making capacity freely and independently assuming responsibility for our learning process and developing firm criteria without disregarding that of others.

EMOTIONALLY INTELLIGENT

We motivate the capacity of knowing ourselves, our potential and limitations, regulating our emotions. We face adverse situations with resilience to achieve our own well-being and that of others.

GOOD READERS

We use our reading capacity to understand information from different genres, through different strategies such as prediction, inference, deduction, and analysis, conducting research and discriminating information constantly on a variety of topics.

COOPERATIVE

We encourage team work to generate solutions that ensure challenge resolution beyond our differences and opinions, strengthening trust and solidarity.

BROAD LANGUAGE SKILLS

We cultivate respect and appreciation for our native language (Spanish), as well as for international languages (English, French, and Mandarin), through the development of conceptual, attitudinal, and sociocultural abilities to broaden and enhance our vision and perspective as citizens of the world.
